History Toolkit for History Skills in the Social Sciences

$14.74

9780170389334

This revised edition brings full colour and new units on topics such as graphs and maps, diagrams and tables, stats and key Maori history terms.

Students with history skills are always in demand by those hiring in the workforce. Employers want people who know how to think and how to prepare, present and evaluate their thinking. The New Zealand Curriculum recognises that all students should have the opportunity to develop such essential skills. Developing these skills forms the background for each of the 65 units in this book.

Each unit (listed under Contents) is a guide and practice for understanding, how to, knowing, recognising, and interpreting. Each unit demystifies terminology and introduces or re-introduces students to terms such as evidence, discerning, perspective, and inquiry.

Each of the 65 units is a stand-alone unit but all link together to provide a tool kit of essential knowledge and skills for students at any level who will complete their work in the book by owning knowledge about values and issues, using language, managing self and engaging with the local, national and international communities.

History Skills For NCEA Level 1

$26.04

9780170352581

History Skills for NCEA Level 1 is a workbook that will help you develop the same set of skills and tools used by historians to make sense of the past. The first of these involves finding and assessing the usefulness and reliability of information from both primary and secondary sources. The second set of skills will be those used to analyse primary sources to extract meaning, both of what there is in a source and what is missing from the source(s). It is thus as important for the historian to recognise gaps in the evidence as it is to analyse the available material. The third and final set of skills involves communicating the ideas gained from the analysis of the evidence in the form of a convincing historical argument, backed with plenty of relevant evidence. The most common form for doing this is through an essay.

Year 11

History Skills for Senior NCEA

$26.04

9780170418393

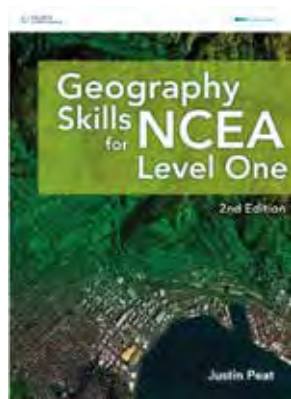

History Skills for Senior NCEA builds on History Skills for NCEA Level 1. Activities explore the key additional historian's skills, including those that are – or could be – examined in the resource based papers, according to the relevant Achievement Standard Explanatory Notes.

While this workbook covers a range of skills that are relevant to Levels 2 and 3, teachers can, as with History Skills for NCEA Level 1, 'pick and choose' what areas are most relevant to the students in their classes.

Such skills include:

- identifying continuity and change
- past and present
- cause and effect/consequence (underlying, long-term, short-term and trigger)
- agency versus structure
- specific and general
- establishing significance
- close reading (including asking questions of a source), approaches to difficult vocabulary in a source
- skimming and scanning text.

Human Rights

$26.91

9780170262378

In an ideal world a book about human rights would simply deal with those rights that everybody on the planet enjoys because they are human. In the real world this book must show how societies have struggled and still struggle to achieve social justice. Humans are not perfect and therefore man's inhumanity to man has been evident throughout history; however, thanks to the efforts of individuals, groups, institutions and governments, man's humanity to man has also had a significant impact on people's lives and will continue to do so in the future.

Understanding past and present societies and considering future societies through a focus on human rights will help students participate as critical, active, informed and responsible citizens. How do people define and seek human rights? How do groups make decisions that impact on people's lives? How do people participate individually and collectively in response to community challenges? Human rights is integral to all the conceptual strands of the Social Sciences curriculum, and through all levels. Identity, culture, organisation, place, environment, continuity, change, economic world – none of these can be examined without reference to human rights.

While Human Rights sits firmly in the Social Studies strands, the concept of human rights is integral to the New Zealand curriculum. It is intrinsic in all its values key competencies, principles and learning areas. This book is accessible to all ability levels, especially Years 9 and 10, and encourages further research on student-orientated topics. It covers various settings, perspectives, processes, and essential skills while bringing into focus essential learning with New Zealand society.

Diversity

$26.91

9780170368117

Diversity examines how and why Aotearoa New Zealand has become a fusion of indigenous, settler and immigrant populations, how this increasing cultural diversity has contributed to how we see the world and our place in it and the cultural identity of others, how and why culture is developed and maintained, how communities have clashed at various times in New Zealand's history when their identity has been challenged, how people express their cultural identity in a rapidly changing society, and the change and challenges shaping New Zealand's superdiversity in the future.

The wide-range of activities in Diversity are knowledge, skill and inquiry based and are designed to be accessible for all learners. The activities explore different cultural perspectives, beliefs and values by getting learners to make informed decisions on what it means to belong to a culturally diverse society, with the intention of increasing cultural understanding and tolerance. Chapter 7 provides learners with the opportunity to carry out an independent social inquiry on a significant cultural issue.

Diversity is a key text in any Social Studies course. It focuses on essential learning about New Zealand society and covers perspectives, processes, key competencies and principles of the New Zealand Curriculum. The book is mainly, though not exclusively, for use in Year 9 and 10 Social Studies.

NCEA Accounting – A Beginning Level 1 Year 11

NCEA Accounting - A Beginning: Level 1 Year 11 Workbook

$26.04

9780170211062

Research has shown that deep learning is enhanced by shortening the time between the introduction of new material and student interaction with this material. It is therefore important that students have an early opportunity to apply what they have learnt and gain mastery of it.

The student workbook contains all the questions from the text together with answer space, following the format of the external examinations. It has been designed to enable students to experience early success with simple exercises by having these partially worked. This success gives students the confidence to progress through to more challenging examples on their own. Use of the workbook enables students to focus on concepts and procedures immediately without the necessity of learning a particular format by heart before they can begin. Over time, format becomes second nature as students develop a conceptual understanding of the purpose of each exercise.

The use of workbooks also provides more time for students to interact with the subject matter itself and hence offers greater opportunity for them to master basic concepts through practice. It is suggested that students should not destroy pages when errors are made; rather than rewriting an entire question, a correction in a different coloured ink will often suffice. The student may then proceed to a new task which provides the opportunity to relearn the point which has been missed. The corrected exercises provide a focus for revision and a useful resource for independent study.

Gamma Mathematics NCEA Level 1, 1st edition

$59.99

9781442532595

A complete solution for Level 6 of the New Zealand Mathematics Curriculum, Gamma Mathematics cover all thirteen NCEA Level 1 Mathematics Achievement Standards. The material in the books has been selected so that schools can design courses that meet the needs of all students. Most students will enter for 6 or 7 Achievement Standards at most, so a double-book solution means less waste but there is some overlap in Number and Statistics so a narrow choice is not dictated to schools.

Gamma Mathematics covers nine of the Achievement Standards, including all the externally assessed material. It is the ideal text for students continuing on to do NCEA at Level 2 in Year 12. There is also an associated Workbook with 80 self-contained assignments.

Suitable for Year 11 Students.

Australian Signpost Maths Series:

Australian Signpost Maths is a mathematics activity book series for students from Foundation to Year 6. The series has been written to meet the requirements of the Australian Curriculum.

The components of the series include Student Books, Teachers Books, Mentals Books and an interactive website. Teachers can select an appropriate program for every student from the rich and varied material provided. The content has been carefully sequenced within each year level and across the series to take into account students' likely mathematical development.

Australian Signpost Maths emphasises the curriculum's syllabus content as well as problem-solving strategies, language development and the use of technology. the syllabus is organised into three content strands (Number and Algebra, Measurement and Geometry, Statistics and Probability) and four proficiency strands (Understanding, Fluency, problem solving, and reasoning), showing how the content learned is explored and developed.

To maximise the benefits of the program, the Student Book, Teachers Book, Mentals Book and Website should be used together. The structure of the Student Book allows teachers to determine both the order and the extent of content covered. The Teachers Book provides lessons plans for each page of the Student Book and blackline masters to assist teachers in implementing the program. The Mentals Book mixes examples from all strands. It revises the content covered in the Student Book, with each content strand being covered thoroughly and the proficiency strands incorporated within each section. The website helps teachers bring mathematics alive with technology. the website provides interactive maths tools, games and practice opportunities as well as relevant resource masters and worksheets for all year levels.

On Track' and 'Fast Track' Maths Junior Secondary Workbooks:

The key to the success of Sigma's TRACK MATHS workbooks is the dual pathway they provide for maths teachers and students - ON TRACK and FAST TRACK. In the first two years of secondary school the mathematical ability of students extends over a wider range compared to intermediate school. Sigma solves this issue by providing two workbooks for each year group, so that both mid-band and more able students are provided with their own maths workbook written exclusively for their ability level. Matching the teaching resource to a student's ability level is a crucial factor in the learning process.

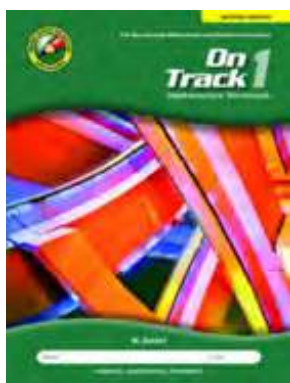

The On Track Workbooks include more revision work from the previous year, allowing mid-band students to refresh their concepts and fill in any missing maths knowledge before tackling new work. This ON TRACK format allows mid-band students to study independently, complete more work, and achieve sound results in mathematics.

The Fast Track Workbooks are aimed at more able maths students (those capable of passing NCEA Level 2-3 courses in the future) who will find a wide range of interesting, relevant and challenging study material in the workbooks. The 'Fast Track' pathway is aimed at helping advanced students reach Merit and Excellence levels in the subject. Starting on a Fast Track workbook at the beginning of the year assumes a student has successfully completed last years maths work.

Both workbooks use New Zealand based problems and feature many photographs which help students connect maths with real world situations. All junior secondary TRACK workbooks contain about 160 pages of concentrated maths work and a full set of answers that are removable. Further features include :

- Written to the New Zealand Mathematics and Statistics Curriculum objectives
- Encompasses the Secondary Numeracy Project
- Uses the Statistical Enquiry Cycle
- Detailed teaching 'Instruction Boxes' on almost all pages
- 'See and do' worked examples included
- End of chapter summary tests
- Curriculum/Chapter Links page for teacher reference
